

Inner Quality Management®

HeartMath's Whole System Model for Success

Excellent products and services are a result of coherent, well integrated systems—high quality components, robust processes and effective people attuned to developing and delivering excellence. Excellent companies are the result of high quality people who are technically sound and who can work both independently and inter-dependently to create high quality, coherent processes, relationships and outputs. HeartMath's Inner Quality Management (IQM) model and tools ensure excellence in your business.

1. Internal Self-Management

a scientifically-based process for improving effective decision-making, in-the-moment stress reduction and boosting intelligence. Learn the science of physiological coherence and the how and why of applying powerful techniques to job stresses, strategic planning, customer service, meeting effectiveness and personal interactions.

4. Strategic Processes of Renewal

is a set of tools that are built into the organization to enable ongoing renewal and keep strategic thinking open and nimble. Provides practical technologies for stimulating greater creativity and innovation and applications for project planning, decision-making and teamwork.

2. Coherent Communication

Interpersonal and organizational communication problems dramatically inhibit organizational effectiveness. The IQM tools help individuals and teams improve their ability to listen and to develop new clarity in their communication with co-workers, clients, customers and vendors, saving time, energy and money.

3. Boosting Organizational Climate

Research has shown certain attitudes prevalent within organizations can enhance productivity while others compromise it. Learn how to create a self-sustaining atmosphere of respect and appreciation to increase cooperation, commitment and job satisfaction, while neutralizing the “emotional virus.”

The Power to Change Performance

Inner Quality Management Program (Day 1 also known as the 'Peak Performance' Program)

You need to respond dynamically and effectively to the pressure of accelerating speed and change in the new economy. HeartMath's The Power to Change Performance, combines science and business management to deliver practical tools and strategies for improving performance, reducing stress, improving communication skills, effectively managing work and personal life balance issues and increasing the satisfaction of both employees and customers. Tested on four continents, the one-day Power to Change Performance program can create powerful, sustainable business results.

Results

The Power to Change Organizations

Day 2 of the Inner Quality Management® Program

The pressures on organizational cultures to be coherent and perform brilliantly at a time of rapid change, are greater than ever. Business success is only possible when there is coherence - alignment - between personal and professional performance, personal and professional goals, and personal and professional strategies.

The Power to Change Organizations Workshop is based on the premise that when people have tools to manage their intellectual and emotional processes they become active creators of a healthy, productive workplace climate and even regain organizational vitality where it may have been lost. Once a critical mass of individuals within a team, department, division or the whole organization reaches a new level of mental and emotional self-management it will create a momentum that cannot be stopped. As a result, the organization will become more resilient, adaptable, innovative, productive and efficient. And a better place to work.

Our Power to Change Performance program focuses on the first two dynamics of IQM: Internal Self-Management and Coherent Communication (see back). In day two your team will cover information and learn skills that relate to the other critical elements of creating coherent organizations - Boosting Organizational Climate and Strategic Processes of Renewal.

The same qualities that boost individual health and performance are also essential for an organization's health and performance. The Power to Change Organizations applies the theories of coherence and tools learned in The Power to Change Performance workshop, to the organization.

In this one-day workshop you'll learn:

- ▶ the elements of a healthy and productive workplace climate
- ▶ how to build and sustain resilient teams
- ▶ the keys to making well-informed decisions under pressure
- ▶ how to generate innovative ideas and bring them to practical application
- ▶ how to conduct more efficient and productive meetings
- ▶ innovative strategies for creating a strong organizational culture and esprit de corps
- ▶ practical tools for creative decision-making and strategic thinking

Participant materials include:

- ▶ Power to Change Organizations guidebook

Prerequisite:

This program assumes participants have had either a Power to Change Performance workshop or a Day One Inner Quality Management® workshop from HeartMath.
